Model M94-H-6-G

Model M94-H-6-G Tube End Forming System

The Manchester model M94-H-6-G is a hydraulically operated combination tube end forming and grooving machine. The machine includes a single stationary clamp for holding the tube as well as a transfer mounted Manchester six stroke end forming ram and a model 24008 tube grooving head. The forming ram and grooving head may be programmed to perform many combinations of end forming and grooving or cutting operations. Since the tube is only clamped once, excellent concentricity is maintained. Some of the many features and options available for this machine are listed on the other side.
